I am strongly opposed to lifting the cross-ownership ban. Consolidation of the media does not serve public interest. As it is, the only way of distinguishing one media company from another is by which movies they shamelessly promote under the guise of film "criticism." The public needs the free and competitive flow of information, not media oligarchies.